

Volunteers Needed!

Help develop a mobile App!

The First 40 people to respond are eligible for a $10 stipend! If you are not one of the first 40 people we are still interested in your input—but you will not receive the $10 stipend. If you choose your name can be added to a database and you might be asked to participate in another project in the future.

What are we doing?

We are asking people with disabilities to tell us how we can create the most “likable, accessible and usable” information for an App. The purpose of the App is to help people make healthy living choices based on their specific needs and interests such as weight loss and managing health conditions.

What you get to do:

Review some health information on a website. You will review short videos, audio files, and text documents. Then, you will fill out a survey to tell us what you like and don't like about the ways you had to review the information.

To qualify, you must:

- Be very comfortable using technology including email, surfing the web, and using more than one tab within a browser
- Have access to a computer on a regular basis
- Adults over the age of 18 years
- Have a physical limitation or mobility impairment

What you get:

You will receive a $10 stipend for your time and feedback. But you must be one of the first 40 people to complete the survey to receive the stipend. You can expect to receive your stipend within 4-6 weeks after you complete the survey.

Where to go:

Visit the website and get started today: http://rtc.ruralinstitute.umt.edu/?page_id=9689

